

Stay Golden

For a more formal look that's the epitome of elegance, this dinner party set is golden. Anchored by the Royal Doulton Biltmore pattern that evokes a sense of "American royalty" this set is ready to shine. Glints of gold, delicate details, and elevated everything – the perfect recipe for a get-together that's as glamorous as it is classic.

REPLACEMENTS, LTD. in partnership with

WHAT'S IN THE BOX?

- ___ Dinner Plates
- ___ Salad Plates
- ___ Dessert Plates
- ___ Water Goblets
- ___ Wine Glasses
- ___ Dinner Forks
- ___ Salad Forks
- ___ Place Spoons
- ___ Dessert Spoons
- ___ Knives

CONVERSATION STARTERS

Did You Know? The Biltmore dinner plate included here beautifully represents the design excellence of Royal Doulton. Founded as Doulton and Watts in Lambeth, England, in 1815, the company produced both industrial and household ceramics. John Doulton's sons, who had joined their father in the management of the business, eventually formed companies of their own. But turmoil in the British financial markets forced the businesses to dissolve. In 1853 they reformed as Doulton and Co. In 1901, King Edward VII conferred a Royal Warrant upon Doulton and Co. to honor the company's production of ceramic vessels that successfully filtered pollutants from the water of the Thames River, London's primary source for drinking water.

Explore More at replacements.com